THE DAY AFTER

Once lockdown is over, what follows in the wake of family life indoors?
A foretaste of this much-awaited hereafter, when, deep down inside, everyone dreams blissfully of being outside.

FASHION. LIFESTYLE. TRAVEL. EXPERIENCES FOR MODERN FAMILIES.

DESIGN

Flexible

With its wealth of experience and knowledge of Italian tradition, Nidi, the brand under the Battistella umbrella, pursues its quest for utilitarian beauty combined with quality raw materials. Aware of families' needs as children grow, it offers modular designs and interchangeable solutions. Its ongoing research and constant development have given birth to a vast range of products that respond to specific demands. Take the Regoli storage system, for example, which is put together like a game of building blocks, combining drawers and open shelving, different shapes and colours. A clever system indeed, a veritable chameleon that creates and recreates the room instead of simply furnishing it. (H.L.) nidi.it

COLLAB

Poudre Organic x Maison Rousset

These two French brands have teamed up on a first-ever collaboration to produce a bowl inscribed "Born in 2020". It comes in three versions: with a black or red contour or with stars on the ears. Delicate drawings of flowers, birds or the Eiffel Tower feature at the bottom of the bowl. Made in France, this ceramic bowl is meant to be offered as a gift to babies born in 2020, and is available in a limited edition from Poudre Organic's Parisian boutique exclusively.
